	Species: Canine/ Feline

Your pet will be undergoing general anesthesia plus a dental procedure today. This will consist of your pet having their teeth probed for any cavities, scaling to remove any plaque and tartar build up and polishing. Your pet may need to have some teeth extracted depending on the integrity of the tooth. There is always a risk of infection, bloody saliva and in rare cases a broken jaw due to tooth extractions.

EXTRACTIONS

Extraction prices range from $25.00-$125.00 per tooth. Some teeth may be much harder to remove than others which may result in an additional charge at the doctors' digression.

PRE SURGICAL BLOODWORK

In order to recognize any underlying abnormalities your pet may have, we recommend having a pre-surgical blood profile run on your animal. This consists of a CBC, which will check blood cells, and chemistry panel which will check blood glucose, kidney and liver enzymes. These blood tests will help us to assess the health status of your pet more completely and determine if there are any additional precautions we need to take before surgery. We highly recommend a blood profile for any age animal, especially geriatric animals (animals older than 5 years).

There is an additional charge for these blood tests of $110.00
